AUSTRIA MAY TAKE BALLOT ON MONARCHY

Chancellor Openly Commits Party to Throne Restoration

VIENNA, Feb. 15.—The Chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg yesterday openly committed his government party, the "Fatherland Front," to support of a plebiscite for restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria and indicated a plebiscite would be held on the question.

The Austrian people will decide in a constitutional manner whether Austria is to remain a republic or to be a monarchy, declared the Chancellor in a speech before 1,000 district leaders of the "Fatherland Front."

Although he did not state explicitly there would be a plebiscite and also was silent as to when the question would be raised, he declared the government and the Fatherland Front alone will choose the time when this issue is to be referred to the people.

"In connection with monarchist propaganda," said the Chancellor, "I have been able to see the need of its mission to awaken and uphold the traditions of the House of Hapsburg. The form of the state will be decided by the Austrian people on the basis of the constitution."

Turning Spotlight on Day in Follies Gr's Life: Today's Picture Story

Long Beauty Seep Prepares Chorine for Strenuous Night of Work and Play

"Dear that alone clock" shows beautiful Florence Baker. It's just five and she'll be busy to work. But don't fret for her—she's a girl. Florence you see, is a Ziegfeld Follies show girl. Her day starts late, ends early.

Kept on matinee days, when she reports at the theatre about 1 p.m. Florence gets on the job, looking like a million dollars, shortly after 1 p.m. She starts her work, usually finishing at five o'clock and then the following day.

It'd be easier if she lived at the theatre, for no matter does she get on the job than she has to undergo, redo her hair, make up and so on.

Then into her costume, a romp through the wings, and onto the stage. If you've got a good eye for beauty as the Ziegfeld Follies stage, that's right, Florence Baker is in center, toady holding up her skirt.

Short hours but hard work—quick changes of costume, strenuous dances, tedious waits. By 11:30 p.m. Florence Baker has done her day's stint. Into an evening dress and a good time at Broadway's bright spots. Her toady-lure life turns night into day. Then home in the wee hours that make afternoon a good time to get up.

Three Issues Argued As Court Hears Case To Test Interest Cut

I Saw Today

Three issues are being determined in the action brought by the Independent Order of Foresters, Toronto, against the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District and E. C. Charlewitz, district trustee, seeking payment in full of interest of $114,000 on district bonds held by the order, which opened in Supreme Court Monday morning before Mr. Justice Ives.

The three issues are:—
1.—The right of the claimant to sue under section three, clause two, of the Provincial Securities Interests Act.
2.—The question of property and civil rights outside the province.
3.—The question of provincial power to legislate in relation to the securities interest.

COURT AWARDS MINING LEASE TO PLAINTIFFS

By decision of Mr. Justice Ives in the case of the Canadian National Railway Co. v. The Ontario Mining Lease, the court has awarded to the plaintiffs a valuable mining lease which had been repossessed by the Ontario Mining Lease Commission. The plaintiffs are the Ontario Mining Lease Commission, which had been repossessed by the Ontario Mining Lease Commission.

RACE TO MAKE TAXATION PROBE

P. W. Race, secretary of the Taxpayers' Protective Association of Edmonton, has been named by the city taxation committee to conduct a survey for the city of the distribution of taxation in Edmonton. The committee is attempting to find out whether the tax levied over a period of years is just and fair.

STRANGER GETS INTO HOT WATER; COOLS RAPIDLY

Maybe it was a yen for cleanliness, or a desire to wash away the hot water, and thus be just about a millionth, but a stranger got into a shower stall at the Hotel Saturday night, undressed, and took a shower. He was found by the police and taken to the police station, where he was held for a while.
